A Note From the Rabbi

Jason Holtz

Shabbat

If there is one thing we could use more of, it's time. I sometimes joke that I wish there were two (or more!) of me so I could do everything I wanted. But really, that's just another way of saying there is not enough time.

There is a story of a teacher who had a glass jar on his desk, along with a pile of rocks, pebbles and sand. He told his students that the only way to get all the rocks, pebbles and sand into the jar is to start with the rocks, let the pebbles fill in the spaces between the rocks, and finally let the sand fill in the space between the pebbles. The lesson is to make sure that the big things are taken care of first, otherwise there will never be enough space – or time – to get them in at the end.

Our Jewish tradition has long thought the different ways we use our precious time. King Solomon once said that to everything there is a time, and a season for every purpose under heaven. A time to be born and a time to die... a time to weep, and a time to laugh; a time to mourn, and a time to dance, and so on.

The Talmud, a central collection of rabbinic writings, tells the story of how even God has to practice time management. According to one passage, God spends the first three hours of the day studying, the second three hours of the day judging the world with mercy, the third three hours sustaining the world, and the final three hours of the day playing with the leviathan, God's pet whale. It's an allegory, of course, about the importance of devoting some time to self-improvement, some time to our work's various tasks, some time with those we care about, and to make sure that there is time for fun.

The Torah itself talks about the necessity of work, but to also make sure that we carve out time for something other than work. Those times are the various holidays and festivals, but the most frequent, and one of the most important is Shabbat.

The Torah gives two big reasons for Shabbat – the first is because God rested on the seventh day of Creation, suggesting that if even God rests, so too should we. And the second is because we were slaves in Egypt and now we are free. Slavery was dehumanizing, turning the Israelites into something less than full people. Their worth was measured only by what they could produce for others. Therefore, the Egyptians had no reason to give the Israelites time for Shabbat or anything other than work. Shabbat recognizes our humanity. Yes, it is important to be productive and contribute to society and our own sustenance. But that's not everything. It's also important for us to nurture relationships, to learn, to grow, and to enjoy life.

While Jewish tradition prescribes various Shabbat practices, we can also add our own creativity and judgment about what is right and wrong for us on Shabbat. We can choose to have a special Friday night dinner or Saturday afternoon lunch, we can choose to come to TKC, we can choose to make time for family or friends. And it's not all or nothing. The important thing is to make sure that we have time for the important things in life.

Membership Committee Update

It has been a busy few months in our efforts to enhance our community and we will be continuing our efforts to do so. First, we want to thank everyone who showed interest in our new Chavurot. Our empty Nester Chavurah will have its first event on May 6th at Debbie Oberst's house. Parents of School Age Children, Outdoor Enthusiasts, and Shabbat Dinners at Members Homes will be scheduling their first event. To find out more information on these Chavurot, contact:

Debbie Oberst for Empty Nester Chavurah at debbyoberst@hotmail.com

Becky Langmandel for Parents of School Age Children at bolensky@gmail.com

Melissa Wright for Outdoor Enthusiasts at winalotta@aol.com

We want to thank Debby, Becky, and Melissa for their leadership in their Chavurot. There is still time to be part of these exciting programs!

Secondly, we had a wonderful Daven & Dine Shabbat on April 14th at American Pasta Factory. We are going to plan our third Daven & Dine Shabbat. Look in your emails in May for the date and location. It has been a terrific way to connect with other members. Hope to see everyone at the next one! If you have any questions or comments, please let us know.

CONGRATS! Jonathan Kopel, son of David Kopel and Leslie Kopel, is currently engaged in a 6-month co-op at Tufts Medical Center in Boston. Part of his time is spent with the outpatient blood draw clinic where patients go for blood tests. The rest of the time he is in the clinical lab processing samples and delivering them to their respective departments. There is also a plethora of educational opportunities and lectures, which he attends regularly. Jonathan is currently a sophomore at Northeastern University pursuing a degree in Biochemistry.

News from TKC President Seth Litman

Service and Volunteerism

In my last article I thanked our tremendous TKC volunteers that work so hard to keep our temple facilities operational, looking good and code compliant. Volunteerism at TKC, however, is not limited to maintenance and renovations. Instead, our Kehillah is filled with fun and fulfilling opportunities for our members and their families to engage and make our local community and community at large a better place for all. Here are a few of those opportunities.

TKC has been a long-standing supporter of the Drake House. The Drake House is a local organization that supports single mothers and their children who are in need. It offers crisis housing that is financially supported by the community, along with career support, life skills support and advocacy. TKC provides financial contributions towards an apartment on the Drake House’s premises, and it helps furnish the apartment for its tenants. One of our members also acts as a budget advisor to the person that is staying in our sponsored apartment, and I understand that they are looking for a teen advisor/mentor right now. If you are interested in becoming involved in supporting the Drake House, please reach out to Mark Kunzman (markkunzman@gmail.com), who is our lead organizer, or the contact the office.

Our members also work with a local church food pantry to help provide food to families in a food supply crisis. The purpose of the program is to provide those families enough food to get them through their crisis. A couple of Thursday evenings each month our members, often with their kids, gather at Pleasant Hill Church to sort and prepare bags of food that will be distributed the following Saturday. There are also opportunities to distribute food on Saturdays. If you are interested in assisting with the food pantry, please contact Shari Naman (namanshari@aol.com).

The Zaban Paradies Center is a couples shelter that provides two meals daily for 22 homeless couples in Atlanta. Each couple is provided a private bedroom, linens and laundry supplies. As their “payment” for their stay, couples are assigned chores at the shelter on a rotating basis. Additionally, residents are linked with social service providers to help them break the cycle of homelessness. Temple Kehillat Chaim sponsors one meal per month at the Zaban Paradies Center, which our members create and deliver to the shelter (service for 30-40 people). We are looking for individuals or teams of people to get involved to provide these meals on TKC’s assigned days. If you are interested in assisting with providing meals, please contact Shari Naman (namanshari@aol.com).

In addition to these opportunities outside the temple, we are looking to revive our Caring Committee, which has not operated for a number of years. Historically, this group is responsible for providing assistance to TKC members in need. If you are interested in helping reform this committee please contact Amy Deich (admin@kehillatchaim.org). Last but not least, on May 7th the Brotherhood is having a Day of Service at the temple to repair and beautify our property and facility. Please contact Dan Eifert (daneifert1968@yahoo.com) for more information.

Our temple is a wonderful place of worship and teaching, but there is more to it than that. It provides numerous opportunities for you and your family to volunteer within both the membership and the greater community to help enhance the lives of others. Please join us as we help better the lives of our fellow congregants and members of our community.

Sisterhood

Food truck Shabbat was a huge hit and enjoyed by all! What a wonderful way to kick off Shabbat with food, fun and friends! We enjoyed hosting this event along with Brotherhood and the Membership Committee.

Sisterhood had a record turnout for our 10th Annual Women's Seder! The beautiful seder was led by Shari Naman and a catered dinner was served. Sisterhood members, their daughters and guests all had a lovely evening participating in the service and catching up with old and new friends. The event would not have been possible without everyone who pitched in to help with set-up as well as clean-up. Thank you to all who attended making this such a warm and wonderful event!

Calling all cooks! TKC Sisterhood has begun gathering recipes for our cookbook that we will be publishing and selling next year. If you would like to submit a favorite recipe or two, please email them to tkcrecipes@gmail.com. All recipes must be your own or credit must be given to where the recipe came from.

Sisterhood is currently working on our 2023-2024 calendar of events. Stay tuned so you can save the dates for more fun and exciting events to come!

 A graphic with the text "RACIAL JUSTICE" in bold, black, sans-serif capital letters. Above the text are five raised fists in various shades of brown and black, symbolizing solidarity and protest.

We have completed over a year of volunteer work on Thursday nights with the Food Pantry at Pleasant Hill Church. All of the volunteers who have helped in this endeavor found it meaningful and have enjoyed getting to meet the church members. We invite anyone interested in performing this mitzvah to join our efforts. The Food Pantry is five minutes from TKC, and we help staff it twice a month on Thursday nights for about an hour and a half. If you are interested in becoming a volunteer, please go to kehillatchaim.org/social-action.

 The logo for Zaban Paradies Center for Homeless Couples. It consists of a house icon with a heart inside, and a pair of hands holding a heart. Below the house icon, the text "ZABANPARADIESCENTER" and "FOR HOMELESS COUPLES" is written.

The Zaban Paradies Couples Center is moving to a year round project. This center provides housing and life skills training to couples who have found themselves homeless and in need of repairing their lives. TKC has participated for many years with loyal volunteers who work together with other families to bring a meal on the fourth Sunday of each month. Meals may be served or dropped off on the appointed day. Because we will be responsible year round, we need additional families who want to do this mitzvah. For more information or to volunteer, go to kehillatchaim.org/social-action.
